high driveway slab forms a dam and stops normal drainage of water into the street, residents say.
According to the map prepared by Bishop, slabs will need to be dropped all the way from two inches in some cases to as much as a foot in others. A suit to force the contractor to do this is being prepared by the city for filing next week.

Mock 'Quake Helps Civil Defense Corps Prepare for Disaster Aid

A severe earthquake demolished most of Torrance Thursday evening.
Luckily, it existed only in the minds of members of the Civil Defense battalion in Area "G" Harbor Area.
Police and Fire Departments in South Bay cities marshalled their forces in response to the mock earthquake, which struck with a sharp jolt at 6:37 p.m. and got out to solve the problems posed by the exercise.
In Torrance the quake would have caused quite a mess. It ripped a fissure two feet wide along Hawthorne Blvd. that left the west ground level three feet lower than the east. All structures, both brick and masonry, were reported 80 per cent destroyed in a mile wide belt centered on the fissure and areas outside of the belt were 25 to 45 per cent demolished.
In the refinery area, tanks and pipelines containing high test gasolines, impregnated with radioactive material, were split and spilling their deadly fumes.

Pipelines Split

Breaks in odorless natural gas lines in the fire area necessitated urgent calls for special detectors to aid in the repair work before the gas reached the fires.

Exercise Succeeds

George Powell, assistant director of Civil Defense here, reported Friday that the results of the preventive measures in the exercise were "highly satisfactory."
Others who were called on to help solve mythical problems were Elva McMillen, Red Cross; Jean Maskey, welfare center manager; Casper Clemmer, rescue service; R. W. Johnston, Torrance Jaycees; H. M. West, building inspector; Ronald Bishop, engineering; and Carl Backlund, Scoutmaster of Troop 254 who used the following boys as messengers; Mac Guyman, Keith Edwards, Walter Cotton, Doug Bergen, Phillip Edwards, Leon Wesham, Duke Bingham, George Simons, Kenny Wheat, Dennis F. Edwards and Wendell Talbot.

Mock 'Quake Helps Civil Defense Corps Prepare for Disaster Aid

Frank H. Forester, 41, weld shop supervisor at National Supply Co. turned on the radio Friday at noon and heard something that nearly knocked him out of his chair.
He learned that he had just become a Senator's son, Forester is the son of Mrs. Eva Bowling, 62, wealthy Nebraska cattle ranch operator, who became Friday the first woman to represent Nebraska in Congress.
Mrs. Bowling was appointed by Gov. Robert Crosby to fill the vacancy in the U. S. Senate caused by the death of Sen. Dwight P. Griswold (R) Monday. She will not seek election, but will serve until the results of the November elections are certified. Mrs. Bowling becomes one of two women in the Senate—both Republicans. The other is Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.
Forester was completely taken aback by the news of his mother's historic appointment. One of the richest women in Nebraska, Mrs. Bowling handles the active management of a 20,000-acre cattle ranch in Cherry County in Western Nebraska, Forester said yesterday.
Forester lives at 1416 Fern Ave. with his wife, Frances, and sons Jimmie, 6, and Ronnie, 3. He says that his mother, the new Senator, had been very active in GOP work in her home state, was president of the Nebraska Good Roads Assn. for several years and an officer in the Cattleman's Assn. She has two other sons, both in Lincoln, Neb.

Woman Senator Has Son Here

Church membership in the United States gained by 22 million during the 1940's, but the increase dropped to about five aback by the news of his mother's historic appointment. One of the richest women in Nebraska, Mrs. Bowling handles the active management of a 20,000-acre cattle ranch in Cherry County in Western Nebraska, Forester said yesterday.

The number of unemployed in men are veterans, some disabled. The employment picture in the Metropolitan Los Angeles area showed a marked down trend from January to February. Employment in the LA area declined to 2,131,400 in February from 2,133,700 in January, with 113,800 persons unemployed during February compared to 106,000 in January. This was a large jump from the February, 1953, figure, which showed 83,800 persons unemployed.
